Microsoft might have been found guilty, but I hope that the justice dept understands that Microsoft destroyed an entire industry with their practices, and they expect the justice dept will do nothing except slap them on the wrist for it. Thousands of people out of work, ideas stolen, and tactics that would land any normal american in jail. Why not have them just payback what they have done? Rebuild netscape and leave the browser market? Thou splitting them up would be the smartest thing, unless you want to go threw this trial again, because Microsoft will pirate and bully again, its their history.
